

A CIA Alumni Association?

Yes

General Walters - Very strong - a must

Jim Angleton - Very strong - a must

Carl Duckett - A net plus

Larry Houston - On balance, a good idea

Jack Maury - On balance, a good idea

Howard Osborn - Problems, yes, but a good idea

Angus Thuermer - Would create an Intelligence Society of America

25X1A9A [REDACTED] - Organization will someday start whether or not the Agency wants it - has had considerable experience with the FBI former Agents' society

No

Tom Karamessines - Worry about cover, rosters, press, etc.

Cord Meyer - Very concerned about press

Bronson Tweedy - Would create more problems than it would solve

Ed Proctor - Not needed; let EAA communicate with former employees who want to continue membership

Bill Colby - Worried about it - thinks official communication by Office of Personnel should be looked into

Bill Broe - Worried about press

Neutral

Jack Coffey - No objection if alumni want it and organize and operate with no (or minimal) help from the Agency

Harry Fisher - Thinks communication by EAA fraught with too many problems - would prefer communication by a Retired Affairs Division within the Office of Personnel
